

Voices of Women at Work

Supporting Latina workers and their rights in the workplace

How can I help?

1. Juan is the supervisor at the factory where you work. Every day, when your coworker Maria goes into work, Juan makes comments about Maria's clothes and body. When Maria leaves work, Juan tells her he wants to take her home with him. You hear other women make fun of Maria and say that she is looking for special treatment from the boss.
2. Your coworkers Laura and Roberto work together picking tomatoes in the fields. Every time Laura turns her back to Roberto while working, Roberto touches Laura from behind. Laura tells him to stop but he doesn't. Laura tries to work as far apart as possible from Roberto, but he follows her into these more isolated locations.
3. One day, your coworker Josefina is fired. After, she tells you that another coworker Marcos locked her in a bathroom and began touching her. Josefina escaped and complained to a supervisor. The supervisor told Josefina he didn't want any problems and fired Josefina.